

THE SWINGATE SQUIRREL

Monday 19th February 2024

Reported by Millie Stevens

Troublesome, terrible tiger swallowed teacher whole.

This is Jodie with her new tiger slippers on.

Last Thursday night, kind girl protected her wonderful teacher from a ferocious fumesha tiger.

Jodie Woollet-Wray was rollerblading carefully to her favourite school when she saw a scary, mean tiger standing with his claws sticking out at her. Jodie felt terrified. "I was really scared but brave and surprised because I was in Loutham when tigers live in Africa," Jodie told everyone.

Once she got in the door, Jodie found out that her beautiful teacher had been eaten and the same tiger that Jodie met was in her teacher's place. The tiger was even wearing Miss Mase's match and track suit. "I was the most nervous of all of the class because I met the tiger this morning," sobbed Jodie.

The event that unfolded is too disgusting to be told in this newspaper since we don't want our readers to have bad dreams. But, this reporter can explain that Jodie Woollet-Wray has a beautiful, brand new pair of tiger skin slippers. Furthermore, Jodie returned Miss Mase to her classroom. "I was relieved when I saw that Jodie saved me," Miss Mase told us as she hugged Jodie.

A conversation with Jodie and Miss Mase will be available in our next newspaper article.
