Dear diary,

Today, I had the most truly magnificent day ever. One shimmering night, Grandma magically awoke in the garden. She scooped me up and put me on her shoulder. How shocking!

Before I could catch my breath, Grandma batted over the fabulous, lush, magnificent fields as I passed out. Moments later, we rushed through the ocean as we saw vicious bull sharks our way. How terrified I was! Furthermore, Grandma flew over the colorful, shiny metropolis. How fabulous it was! Some time later, we arrived at a steep windy hill with an unfinished, pretty house

Finally I finished the house with Grandma from the heart and made a school for young architects so that they could be inspired by Grandma to follow their dreams. I felt happy and proud because I know Grandma will always be with me.
