

The Midnight Fair

At the break of night, a pack of animals waited for the humans to leave the fair. As soon as everyone left, the crook used his razor-sharp claws to open the gate then turned on the power. Then all of the animals charged into the fair like bulls.

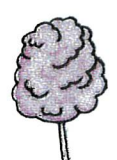

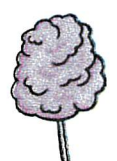

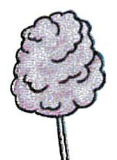

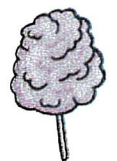

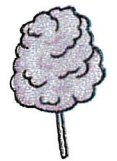

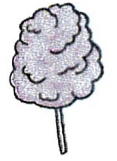

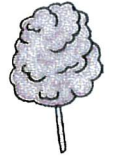

As soon as the animals were done charging, the maker easily convinced most of their friends to go on the colorful roller coaster. As the ride was about to start the animals got scared up as straight as a ruler. As the ride started to go up and down, the poor animals screamed like a monster was chasing them.

Once the animals had finished the ride, they all got the seat of candy. Next, they finally found the candy and started to eat the colorful, sweet candy. Then they all felt sick. Then these faces turned as green as a frog.

Finally, as the sun rose and the gasp
 came, they stoically one by one left.
 But because that, the cheeky animals jidged up the evidence. ~~so know~~ They took some of the evidence to go. Next, they left and had a post by the carport. Or had it really ended..