All gone wrong in chowndswallow

The people in the town of chowndswallow were confused when the food was falling down it rained on all of the residents. It started 8 years ago it was a mystery. Nobody knew how it started. The food came rushing down on people, it was delicious but became dangerous because it was huge! This happened around dinner time and it rained specific food. The residents did not like this.

Food falls from the sky, ham burgers came rushing down landing on people, schools, houses and other buildings. The children could not go to School because a big pizza fell on the school and the children had to stay at home.

One local resident said "we ate cream cheese and jolly sandwiches and ate ourselves sick"; another resident said "we were sneezing ourselves silly!" "I don't think I want to live here anymore."
