

Lotoswood News

02/06/25

T. E. L. L.

CHEWING MORE THAN YOU CAN SWALLOW?

Last Tuesday, the loyal citizens of Chewandswallow witnessed their town being shattered by dramatic weather.

On the 2nd of June, the unfortunate town of Chewandswallow experienced 'a curse' as food storms were happening more than usual. When this incident first occurred, everything was under control, but then things quickly took a turn and people began to panic as expired milk began to pour from the sky. Because of that, schools began to close one after the other. Not only the expired milk came, as vinegar soup wind came rushing in. As a result, people's eyes began to sting so much some people couldn't see. Regretfully,

Houses destroyed by potatoes and a mustard jelly by donut tornado ly, they tried to stop the giant mass but then a mustard jelly donut tornado destroyed a nearby tower causing power-cuts across the town.

The townspeople began to panic, become sick and some people were even rushed to the hospital as they needed medical attention. There were complaints of mashed potato fog coming into hospitals which slowed the services. How could the perfect

Form of Chromosomes have become
"This nightmare form of horror reported the worried citizen."
Another person confirmed, "I saw it with my own eyes, a horse was shared by a gigantic pale that was uncrept."

Because of this unbearable situation Chromosomes have become the first form to ever be inhabitable, people from across the world gathered together to save Chromosomes before it was too late. Ever the Army, Navy, and entire King's Soldiers held out. The only question left is, will the people of Chromosomes ever live a normal life? No one knows.