

The Wisp

In a far away land, Amelie lived in a silent, dark world. A world where the sky was as dull as watching a bare wall. Across this land there was no music, no fun and no light. Darkness ruled this land. It was a world full of people but no-one ever smiled. Including Amelie.

Amelie was a 10 year old girl who's kind, resilient and secretly loves listening to music. Each day, Amelie wished for a world full of music that would play as loud as a giant stomping. A place that had fun, light and joy.

Behind a tree, was a magical, glowing wisp that flew in a dull sky. Amelie slowly walked up towards the cute star. She felt it and it was as soft as a cloud. The wisp began to bounce past the rows of flowers.

All of a sudden, the girl went through a portal and began to hear music coming from a cave which is where the wisp took her. She tried to follow the music and it stopped at an old man with a black cloak and a crooked nose playing the violin. The wisp pointed to the old, tall man as the wisp and Amelie walked towards him. The music was as peaceful as a humming bird.

"I've been waiting for you," said the man.

"Why?" said the girl suspiciously.

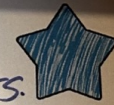

"Because I'm here to make your wish come true," responded the man.

In front of her, was an old man granting the wish. Instantly, the brown flowers turned to vibrant flowers. The flowers bloomed like a shooting star, there was trees as tall as a castle. She was running around in the pointy grass.

"Is this your wish?" asked the man.

"Yes it is! Thank you so much," cried Amelie.

Amelie's heart sank to her stomach.

She was so happy! The world that Amelie wished for was now a reality. Amelie felt the warmth from this colourful world.

Shining in her heart was the Wisp and she knew it would always be there. She was home.
