

The Witch and the Pegasus

In a hot, boiling place, there was a boring land with wonky roads. Every day three fire engines come and make the sun cooler and less hot. In this dull land there were no animals, no food or water. The steaming land was never dark it was always sunny and made everyone mad!

In this boring world, there was a girl named Bella who is ten years old. She lives with her Mum, Dad and her sister and they weren't allowed to wear colourful clothes. All they could wear is black, white and grey. What a boring world it was.

Suddenly, the girl looked up in the air and could see something flying looking for something. Then she saw that the creature was a pegasus she could see it coming down to the ground. Bella could almost feel the mythical animal she walked carefully to it then slowly followed it.

After hopping onto the pegasus, the girl could start to feel a nice breeze in a strange forest. Happily Bella looked what was down there and could see a witch's home. "I've been waiting for you to come", the witch said spookily. "why?" asked the girl curiously. "to make your life better", the witch responded.

As quick as a flash the spooky witch made the little girl's wish come true. Suddenly the boring world was gone there where straighter roads, there where animals as cute as a baby, and there where pools as refreshing as an ice pop. Happily Bella bursted to flames. "I hope you like your wish", asked the witch in a happy voice. "I don't like my wish I love it!" said the girl excitedly. "good", responded the witch.
